Probes ask: Did social services fail slain teen?

Tina Fontaine. Under current legislation, information won't be released publicly Investigations are underway to determine whether Manitoba's social services failed a 15-year-old aboriginal girl who ran away from foster care and was found dead in the Red River.

But the public may never know what exact role Child and Family Services played in Tina Fontaine's life or her death.

The province's children's advocate automatically investigates whenever a child dies while in care, but the reviews are not made public. Child-welfare authorities have also begun their own internal review, but that is also confidential.

Ainsley Krone with the ad-vocate's office said Wednesday a final report will go to the Manitoba medical examiner, the ombudsman and the minister of family services.

"Under our current legislation, we don't release it publicly," said Krone, the advocate's manager of communications, research and public education. "It's the ombudsman's office that has the responsibility for tracking the progress of recommendations that we make."

Fontaine's body was found on Sunday wrapped in a bag in the Red River after she ran away from her Winnipeg foster home, where she had been for less than a month. Police are treating the case as a homicide.

The teen's death touched a nerve in Winnipeg, where more than 1,000 people gathered for a vigil Tuesday night to remember Fontaine and Faron Hall, dubbed the "homeless hero."

Hall's body was pulled from the same river where he saved two people from drowning several years ago.

Fontaine's case is being reviewed at several levels to see if there are lessons that can be drawn, said Family Services Minister Kerri Irvin-Ross. The government is also looking at ways to make the children's advocate's recommendations public, she added.

'Truly global.' CMHR honoured with stamp

Canada Post is celebrating next month's opening of the Canadian Museum for Human Rights with a new stamp.

The stamp, which features an image by local photographer Mike Grandmaison of the museum's tower in front of the curving glass facade of the building, was unveiled Wednesday morning.

"When Canadians use this new stamp on their correspondence, they will help spread awareness of the museum and the importance of human rights across Canada and around the world," said the museum's president and CEO Stuart Murray.

"As we prepare to welcome our first visitors, we keep in mind that this unique museum is distinctly Canadian, yet truly global, as it reflects the important contributions that individuals and peoples have made to advance the cause of human rights."

Adrian Shum, the stamp's principal designer, told Metro that work started on the stamp before the museum was even built and took more than three years to finish.

"Basically the same time it took to build the facility, that's about the same amount of time it took to make the stamp," he laughed. "So it's great to finally see it come to life."

The stamps are available now and sell in packs of 10 for $8.50. SHANE GIBSON/METRO

Pitches. Candidates talk small biz, customer service

Increasing the small-business tax credit and improving the way the city delivers customer service were pitched by two mayoral candidates Wednesday.

Privacy lawyer Brian Bowman visited restaurant Shawarma Khan in the Exchange District to announce that he'd help small businesses by increasing the small-business tax credit to $30,000 from the current $23,880. He also pledged to reduce the business tax rate

"on an annual basis to at least account for increases in annual rental rates."

If elected mayor, Coun. Paula Havixbeck pledged to create a "single point" of contact for customer service during her first three months in office. She said right now citizens are being "shortchanged in a game of bureaucratic football" when they should instead have their needs met.

Speed traps. Province stands by higher fines for speeding in construction zones

shane.gibson@metronews.ca

Gord Steeves thinks drivers are getting a raw deal from Winnipeg's photo-radar enforcement program and is pledging to make changes if elected mayor.

At a press conference held Wednesday morning on Kenaston Boulevard, the former city councillor said he would put clear, neon-coloured signage in place when photo radar is being used in construction zones to let drivers know it's in use. He also vowed to create a two-tiered fine structure for drivers caught speeding through construction zones, giving a lower ticket when workers aren't present.

"The photo enforcement program can only be about workers' safety," he said. "The moment it becomes about revenue, it has failed."

Steeves couldn't say how much revenue would be lost if his changes are implemented.

The candidate also said he'd make sure speeding tickets are issued faster and said he'd increase the length of yellow lights on roads with higher speed limits.

The Province of Manitoba released a statement later in the day indicating they won't change rules implemented earlier this year that upped fines for drivers caught speeding in construction zones.

"Workers are not always immediately visible to drivers approaching a construction zone," read the statement. "That's why speed limits must be followed in construction zones at all times."

Strong and free. Stephen Harper embarks on his annual Northern trek

Stephen Harper is set to embark on his annual trek to the North, his ninth time doing so since becoming prime minister.

The Prime Minister's Office says this year's trip is meant to showcase the science, technology and research that are underway in the North.

Before starting his trip, Harper was scheduled to make a pit stop in British Columbia, first to meet business leaders in Chilliwack and later to speak at a $35-a-head summer barbecue for the Conservative riding association in Langley.

His northern tour gets underway Thursday in Whitehorse at another Conservative party event. The Whitehorse Daily Star reports the Yukon Conservative Association has sent out around 3,000 invitations to its members and others.

The Conservative party website says the Yukon event will be held Thursday evening at an undisclosed location. Buses will shuttle people from an old Shell gas station on the Alaska highway to the site.

The Prime Minister's Office says Harper is also supposed to make an announcement about northern science and research while in the Yukon.

Then he's off to Fort Smith, N.W.T., to make announcements about developing agriculture in the North before heading to Nunavut, where he'll visit Cambridge Bay, Pond Inlet, Iqaluit and York Sound. He'll also take part in the military's Operation Nanook exercise aboard a naval vessel.

Harper's trip comes as the federal government is being sued over funding for a land-use plan that would guide resource development in Nunavut.

You could own all 22 houses in Bradian, B.C., for less than $1 million. PETER EDWARDS/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Keys to this B.C. town up for grabs

Bradian on the block.

All 22 houses for sale in this 'beautiful' town — and you don't even have to be a millionaire to own the entire place

Bradian owner's manual

You won't be totally alone if you decide to buy up the town. Aside from the local grizzly and black bear population, bobcats, mountain goats and deer, there's also the neighbouring community of Bralorne (known to locals as "The Lorne"), which boasts a population of 60 residents, 29 dogs, a pub and a coffee shop.

- If you do decide to buy up Bradian, you would be wise to invest in a reliable four-wheel-drive vehicle. It's a two-hour drive by forestry road to Whistler in summer months, but that time doubles in the winter when you'll have to wind through the relative metropolis of Lillooet (population 2,324).

- Real-estate agent John Lovelace has had between 30 and 50 inquiries, but they tend to soften when people hear of the suspect plumbing and travel challenges. "I don't understand how it hasn't sold," Lovelace says. "It's a long-term investment."

There's no need to put up "For Sale" signs in front of houses in Bradian, B.C.

Only four people live in the mountain community and they're the ones selling all 22 houses there.

If you decide to buy the town, you might also want to invest in some paint, since what's there now began peeling decades ago.

You would also be wise to bring a shovel, as the plumbing is suspect at best.

While the 20-hectare town is short on conveniences, real-estate agent John Lovelace notes that the scenery of the interior mainland is hard to top.

"It's beautiful," Lovelace says. "It rivals Banff, really. Every time you turn a corner, it's unbelievable."

The town and all its houses can be yours for $995,000.

In B.C. terms, that's not so bad, Lovelace says. He has a fly-in log mansion listed for 20 times as much and notes he can get a line-up of hopeful buyers for a $700,000 two-bedroom condo in Richmond.

Bradian certainly has its charms for those who value privacy. For more than a quarter century, it was a ghost town after the local gold mine shut down.

It was revived in 1997

when it was bought by a young Vancouver couple who worked for Air Canada.

Since then, Bradian has been a summer home and labour of love for the couple and their son and daughter.

Lovelace markets Bradian as a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, noting it's "just four hours from Vancouver over the scenic Hurley Pass" and that it has phone service and electricity — conveniences lacking in your average ghost town.

There's also a road and "access through the property to both sides of Cadwalader and Blackbird creeks."

He suggests it might be just the place for snowmobiling aficionados, since there's no shortage of snow throughout the winter.

"In fact, it is said this is one of the best snowmobiling areas in B.C. and the town would be a great resource for a snowmobiling operation," Lovelace suggests. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Mug-shot pride

Man wears T-shirt featuring his own mug shot to jail booking

A Maine man who served a 48-hour drunk-driving sentence wore a T-shirt featuring his mug shot to his jail booking.

Bobby Burt, 19, of Pittsfield, had the mug shot printed on the orange shirt, along with the words, "Sponsored by Bud Light and Somerset County Sheriff."

The mug shot is making the rounds online thanks to The Smoking Gun, which posted it Monday.

Sean Maguire, the jail's compliance manager, said there's no policy on what inmates can or cannot wear for booking photos.

Burt, who's using the mug shot for his Facebook profile picture, didn't immediately return a call left at his place of employment Tuesday.

BYU shelves, pulls same-sex greeting cards

Greeting cards celebrating same-sex marriages turned up at the Brigham Young University bookstore Tuesday.

Placed by Hallmark, the cards reading "Mr. and Mr." and "Mrs. and Mrs." were quickly removed once bookstore staff found them.

BYU spokeswoman Carri Jenkins said the outside vendor stocked the shelves not realizing the school wouldn't want the same-sex greeting cards on their shelves.

It's unclear when the cards were stocked, but Jenkins feels it's simply a matter of the stocker being unaware of BYU's honour code, which states that it isn't a violation to be attracted to people of the same sex, but it is if you act on those feelings.

BYU is owned by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Minks hijinks. Animals freed from Quebec farm at heart of alleged abuse

As many as a few thousand minks could be on the loose in Quebec after someone broke into a fur farm and released the animals.

The farm is at the heart of allegations of animal mistreatment.

Provincial police say they are investigating after the overnight release of the minks. Spokeswoman Joyce Kemp says the owner noticed Wednesday morning that the minks had been released from their pens.

A spokesman for the Forests, Wildlife and Parks Department says the exact number of minks on the lam is unclear but that there could be a few thousand.

Animal advocates like the Montreal SPCA and Humane International Canada had called on the government last week to seize the animals because of their poor health and substandard living conditions.

The province chose to keep the animals under close supervision at the facility and work with the owner.

Minister Baird's tweets not bilingual enough?

Probe. Official language watchdog looks into complaint that MP posts too much in English

Canada's language watchdog is investigating Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird's Twitter account following a complaint that the Conservative MP posts most of his messages in English without enough French.

The probe by official languages commissioner Graham Fraser has puzzled officials in Baird's office and department.

"We are surprised that the official languages commissioner has chosen to investigate the minister's personal Twitter account that falls outside of the scope of the act," said Baird's spokesman Rick Roth. "The minister's Baird, who represents an Ottawa riding in Parliament, uses his Twitter account regularly to inform Canadians, using a mix of messages about government business and personal observations.

For example, this week he tweeted in both English and French about the conflict be-

In recent weeks, some of his tweets have included English-only messages about the death of actor Robin Williams and his return home from a trip to get a cup of Tim Hortons coffee.

Fraser told Baird's department in a July 31 letter that it was looking into the Twitter account to determine whether the government was respecting the "spirit" of federal language legislation.

Toronto Zoo visitors bypass barrier, get too close to giant panda

The Toronto Zoo is investigating "an isolated incident" in which visitors bypassed a bamboo barrier and got too close to a five-year-old giant panda, which was briefly separated from the public by only a chain-link fence.

The security breach happened on Sunday evening and was captured on a cellphone video by a 25-year-old man who was visiting the zoo with his fiancée.

Andrew Fedurko said he accidentally walked into an off-limit area, assuming it was part of the exhibit.

"We walked into an enclosed area to the right of the cage," he said, adding that his fiancée was leaning against the chain-link fence when a panda suddenly appeared from around a corner.

"It didn't look like it was going to jump at us necessarily, but I'm not a panda expert," he said.

Fedurko said once he realized how close they were to the animal, they stepped back and he captured other visitors on video.

The footage shows visitors leaning up against the chain-link fence, with some putting their hands up against the fence while the panda is nearby.

Da Mao is one of two prized giant pandas on a 10-year breeding loan from China as part of a conservation partnership. The pandas will be in Toronto for a five-year term, set to end in 2018, at which point they will be relocated to the Calgary Zoo.

A zoo spokeswoman said visitors had bypassed a bamboo barrier — approximately 4.5 metres high — that had been closed and latched, but there was no padlock on it, which is zoo protocol. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Obama vows U.S. 'will be relentless'

Killing of American journalist. President's remarks affirm U.S. will not stop attacks on Islamic State militants

The United States stood firm Wednesday in its fight against Islamic State militants who beheaded a U.S. journalist in Iraq, pledging to continue attacking the group despite its threats to kill another American hostage.

The U.S. military continued its airstrikes against the group as U.S. President Barack Obama denounced the group as a "cancer" threatening the entire region.

"We will be vigilant and we will be relentless," he said.

Calling for a global response to the group that now controls territory in both Iraq and Syria, Obama condemned the group's execution of journalist James Foley, whose death he said had left America heartbroken. In forceful remarks, Obama accused the Islamic State of torturing, raping and murdering thousands of people in "cowardly acts of violence."

"ISIL speaks for no religion," Obama said, using an alternative name for the Islamic State. "Their victims are overwhelmingly Muslim, and no faith teaches people to massacre innocents. No just god would stand for what they did yesterday and what they do every single day."

Since a video of Foley's beheading was released Tuesday, the U.S. military has pressed ahead by conducting nearly a dozen airstrikes on Islamic State targets in Iraq.

The beheading marks the first time the Islamic State has killed an American citizen since the Syrian conflict broke out in March 2011.

Social-media sites try to block video

Twitter and some other social-media outlets are trying to block the spread of gruesome images of the beheading of journalist James Foley by Islamic State militants, while a movement to deny his killers publicity is also gaining momentum. In a tweet, CEO Dick Costolo said his company "is actively suspending accounts as we discover them."

Twitter users who oppose spreading the images are using the hashtag #ISISMediaBlackout.

However, in Europe on Wednesday, tweets could still be found linking directly to the footage on some video-sharing sites.

Beheading video. Foley's executioner spoke with 'London English' accent

Islamic militants are using a beheading video to send a chilling message — not just through the act, but also through the messenger.

The black-clad fighter who appears to kill journalist James Foley speaks with an English accent, underscoring the insurgents' increasing use of Western militants to mobilize recruits, terrify opponents and project the image of a global force.

He is the latest in a string of international jihadis — Britons, Australians, Chechens, Chinese and Indonesians — to appear in propaganda for the Islamic State group.

U.S. officials have confirmed the video is authentic, an act of revenge for U.S. airstrikes in northern Iraq. In Britain, the investigation focuses on the masked attacker.

Linguists described the man's accent as "multicultural London English," spoken by many young, inner-city residents from a variety of ethnic backgrounds.

"They clearly wanted to use a fluent English speaker to ensure the clip was widely used in the U.S. media," said Peter Neumann, the director of the International Centre for the Study of Radicalization in London. "An American would have been ideal, but there still aren't many American fighters in the conflict."

Bumper cars on a ship? Cruise companies set sail for new market in China

Royal Caribbean's newest ship has attractions not usually seen on cruise liners, including bumper cars, a sky-diving simulator and a glass observation capsule on a mechanical arm that lifts its passengers high into the air.

Also a surprise is the vessel's intended home port: Shanghai.

After floating out of a German shipyard last week, the $935 million US Quantum of the Seas will spend the winter running between New York and the Caribbean before moving to its new base next summer in mainland China's financial centre.

It's a gutsy move for the world's second-biggest cruise company. Cruise operators have traditionally sent older vessels to developing countries while saving their most advanced ships for U.S. and European customers. But surging growth in China means it's a market operators can no longer ignore.

Missed target in Canada

Target 'bit off way too much, too early': CFO

If Target Corp. could re-do its launch into Canada, it would start with just a handful of stores, instead of the more than 100 it opened last year despite their lukewarm reception, the retailer said Wednesday.

However, Target chief financial officer John Mulligan said the retailer is not changing its plan to have 133 stores in Canada by the end of this year and 150 stores by 2017.

"We bit off way too much, too early," Mulligan said during a conference call with Canadian reporters.

"In retrospect, (we would) probably open five to 10 stores last year — refine the operations, refine the supply chain, the technology, get our store teams trained. But again, that's all hindsight; we are where we are right now and we're focused on moving forward to fix this for our guests."

Must love dogs

Is a dog eating your meal a deal breaker?
Then this new breed of online dating site may not be for you

On these dating sites, a passion for pets will help you find more than just puppy love.

Sites like PetsDating.com and YouMustLoveDogsDating.com have found a new niche as singles flock to computers and smartphones to find relationships, connecting dog owners to potential mates who enjoy long walks in the dog park and slobbery canine kisses as much as they do. Many of the sites encourage users to bring their dogs on first dates to break the ice or size up canine chemistry.

Many dating sites cater to religious, cultural and political preferences but won't focus as heavily on interests like pets, music or travel, said Karen North, a professor of social media at the University of Southern California's Anenberg School of Journalism.

"If you find somebody with the same lifestyle passion, you don't have to start out at square one," North said.

When Joanie Pelzer signed up with a dog-friendly online dating service a few years ago, she was honest about her Chihuahua — he likes people more than other dogs, craves attention, steals food and can't stand to ride in the backseat of a car.

Even a man who loved animals as much as she did couldn't keep up with her dog's quirks. On their first date, her Chihuahua, Hubbell, stole the man's breakfast as they drove from New York City to Long Island. They only had one more date.

"I still wonder if Hubbell didn't have something to do with that," said Pelzer, 47, an actress who runs her own social-media company and met the man on PetsDating.com.

Despite that setback, having a common interest such as pets can help the search for love.

"Having a theme that is ... about one's passion makes it feel like you are looking for a needle in a smaller and far more relevant and appealing haystack," said Michal Ann Strahilevitz, a professor of marketing at Golden Gate University in San Francisco.

Latest to ban practice

New Zealand bans shark finning

New Zealand announced it will ban the practice of shark finning, a move the Pew Charitable Trusts said is welcome and will bring the country in line with other developed nations.

New Zealand's Conservation Minister Nick Smith said the move will reinforce the country's reputation for sustainability and environmental protection.

DR. MAZEROLLE'S GUIDE TO HEALTHY LIVING

My doctor wants to undergo a check-up soon, the sort where he treats me like a used car: inspecting the chassis, taking a peek inside and deciding that the motor is not what it used to be.

But I'm not complaining; I need my tires kicked from time to time. Like a car, I'm not a self-starter. I don't clean my apartment unless I know someone's coming over (so, never), and I don't start flossing until I can hear the dentist's footsteps in the next room.

I need to know somebody is going to check up on me or it all goes to hell. So I'm thankful my doctor periodically tells me the various ways I've ruined my life and the excruciating ways I can fix it. Otherwise, it would be worse.

Entering middle age might mean my body is failing, but — lucky you! — my brain is functioning at a youthful level of smugness that allows me to decide how you should live your life.

HE SAYS
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

Follow these tips for healthy living and you'll leave your check-up with a shiny new inspection sticker from the DMV (Department of Metaphors Vexatious). Vroom vroom.

Highway to Health:
Dr. Mazerolle's guide to healthy living:

Love yourself. Nobody else will do it for you, because you're sort of irritating.

Keep hydrated. Did you know we are 60 per cent water? Try to limit urination, bowel movements, perspiration and breathing to keep all that precious water inside.

Get enough sleep. Notice how much energy teenagers have? It's because they sleep a minimum of 20 hours a day, plus naps. Follow suit and you'll have teen angst, flashes of anger and unwanted sexual feelings just like the good old days.

Meditate. Sitting uncomfortably in one spot, doing nothing and trying to stop even thinking might seem like a colossal waste of time — but not if you meditate about it, apparently.

Exercise. Research has shown that the best, most natural rhythm for exercise is a whole bunch of gym visits in January, then a couple in February, then nothing until early summer when you jog outside a couple of times.

Don't binge-watch. Instead, watch small TV shows throughout the day. Stop whenever you feel emotionally satisfied.

Lose weight. Drop your partner and that's 150 pounds right there, am I right? No, seriously, if you break up with your husband or wife you will lose 30 pounds. Ask your doctor if divorce is right for you.

Whatever Dr. Oz says. Kale and magnets together, probably. Go for it. He's a doctor.

Drought continues to wreak havoc

A wildfire that scared a community near Yosemite National Park has been tamed by firefighters after some early surges, and some of the more than 1,000 people who fled from their homes have returned.

"We're not seeing the fire expand like we thought," Madera County Sheriff John Anderson said Tuesday after crews had the fire 35 per cent contained.

The fire comes amid California's third straight year of drought, creating tinder-dry conditions that have significantly increased the fire danger around the state and sent firefighters scrambling seemingly non-stop from blaze to blaze.

It's difficult to be too hard on the Ice Bucket Challenge because it's been a fundraising bonanza for ALS, even if the connection is accidental. But now that sports execs and former U.S. presidents are jumping on board, a lot of us are ready for the whole thing to pass. But first, let's wrap up the trend with a collection of frigid foibles and ice bucket calamities endured by less-successful contestants. It's a nice palate-cleanser to get us ready for the next — and hopefully just as successful — charitable shenanigans. Note: there's one instance of some salty language here. Winnipeg band aims to be the Edgar Allen Poe of black metal music

Black metal — an extreme sub-genre of heavy metal music — gets a bad rap. While prominent black metal musicians have been linked to neo-Nazism, church burnings and even murder, most black metallers don't hold hateful ideologies, just an affinity for dark musical atmospheres, imagery and themes.

According to its bio, Winnipeg black metal band Noire wishes to "extol the beauty of the lightless side of music."

"I think it's (Noire's music) somewhat gothic in nature. It's not brutal black metal like a lot of bands do. It's sophisticated. We're not trying to be the heaviest band — we're trying to make the coolest music," said Noire vocalist, guitarist and pianist Andrew Lawes.

"Our music is dark, like Edgar Allan Poe dark, whereas some death metal is more like a horror film or something. It's (black metal), not necessarily evil music," says Noire guitarist Bob Fitzgerald.

Noire's debut album Dark Reverence, released in October through Deathbound Records, is nominated for Metal/Hard Music Recording of the Year at the Western Canadian Music Awards, which will be handed out Oct. 5 in Winnipeg at the Club Regent Event Centre.

Noire, which also includes drummer Derrick Kroll and bassist Craig Peebles, recorded Dark Reverence with producer Ryan Forsyth at his Grimfrykt Media Productions. Lawes said Forsyth, a member of Winnipeg death metal band Dissolution, not only understood Noire's vision, but enhanced it.

"He suggested adding a couple of piano layers in certain songs that I never considered writing," Lawes said. "With my vocal cadence, he'd say 'I think you should try it this way. It might sound a bit more dynamic.' He has a critical ear. He knows what sounds good."

"And, he's not going to tell you a take was good when it wasn't," Fitzgerald says.

As happy as Noire is with Dark Reverence, the band says the album is quite bare bones and that its next effort will contain more layers and textures.

"We've got one new song basically in the bag," Lawes said. "Our songs are kind of big, so they take us a while. A lot of our songs run for 10 minutes. We basically try to write a riff, expand on it and take it to the next level."

"Each riff, we let it live and do its thing," Fitzgerald says.

Frank Miller traces his unlikely success

Sin City 2. Series creator tells Metro how he kept drawing despite the doubters who didn't believe in his style of crime comics

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Frank Miller's comics career is a long and storied one, with Sin City being one of his most individual creations. Here, in his own words, is his journey toward creating the series — and its unlikely jump to the silver screen:

"I grew up on Superboy comics, and then Spider-Man and that sort of thing, and after a while they started to seem kind of juvenile to me and I lost interest. But I kept drawing.

"Meanwhile, what I was reading were things like Mickey Spillane and Raymond Chandler. So the two loves merged into doing crime comics, which I thought was just an absolute natural and would go over big.

"I moved to New York, was told to go back home. 'We don't need you. Go pump gas. You're from Vermont. We've got news for you: You're not drawing guys in tights.' So I had to learn how to draw guys in tights, and I put them into as many crime situations as I could. And then after working in comics and gaining some notoriety and then working in Hollywood, I sat down and decided I would just please myself, and I would do the one comic book that could not possibly be turned into a movie.

"And it ended up being Sin City. Then (Robert Rodriguez) shows up."

All about Alba

Of all the intense characters in the Sin City universe, vengeful stripper Nancy, played in both films by Jessica Alba, might be his favourite — thanks in large part to Alba's performance. He's found it so inspiring, in fact, that he's eager to get to work on a third film. "The original working title for Jessica's story was Nancy's Last Dance, because she had been the abused victim, she had been through the wringer, and she had ended up as many women in her situation do, which is an exotic dancer," Miller says. "This time, she turns into something else. And I've already got her next chapter planned, so please show up for the second movie."

The Jungle Book. Benedict Cumberbatch to voice Shere Khan

The Andy Serkis adaptation of The Jungle Book, due from Warner Bros in 2016, will have Sherlock star Benedict Cumberbatch as its prowling tiger, Shere Khan.

As a cast member on Star Trek Into Darkness and The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug, Cumberbatch is no stranger to generously budgeted blockbuster filmmaking, and Jungle Book: Origins will see him team up with The Hobbit second unit director Andy Serkis once again.

For Serkis, Jungle Book: Origins will mark his first full directorial debut, making good use of his experience with motion capture and computer-generated imagery, with a release date of Oct. 21, 2016.

In contrast, Disney's version of the Rudyard Kipling classic, named The Jungle Book and due Oct. 9, 2015, has The Wire

Hanks and Wilson split after 26 years of marriage, but reunite a month later

Nobody likes to read bad news about professional nice guy Tom Hanks, but thankfully this has a happy ending.

According to Life & Style, Hanks and wife Rita Wilson hit a rough patch in their 26-year marriage, spending a month quietly separated. "They were leading separate lives. Although they attended social functions and walked their dogs together, they were living in separate residences," a source says.

But the trouble was only temporary, thankfully. "Tom and Rita are not just husband and wife, they are best friends. It will take a lot to split this couple up for good."

Friends fear poor Barton is broke and bummed out

NED EHRBAR
Metro in Hollywood

People are really, really worried about Mischa Barton. Again.

The former O.C. star is reportedly in deep financial trouble and can't seem to get her career restarted. Given her past emotional troubles, her friends and family are fearing a relapse, according to Star magazine.

"Mischa's loved ones are concerned for her health and safety," a source says.

"It's extremely heart-breaking. She's broke and ashamed — and I'm afraid that she may try to numb the pain ... Even though she's basically broke, whiskey is cheap and she can use what's left of her money."

Star claims that Barton is more than $100,000 in debt and her $6.4 million Beverly Hills mansion is in foreclosure.

Poor Mischa Barton. It seems like the only way her name gets in the news anymore is when friends are worried about her. If these "friends" cared so much about her, maybe they could spend their time, I don't know, taking her out for a nice dinner or a spa day instead of just griping to the nearest tabloid.

Calvin Harris

Spinning his turntables into buckets of gold

How much can you make standing behind a laptop and some turntables in a Las Vegas nightclub? Much more than you'd think, apparently, as Calvin Harris knows well.

Harris was named the highest-paid DJ in the world for the second year in a row by Forbes magazine. His take-home pay for the past 12 months? Oh, only $66 million US. "The rise of dance music has been astronomical in the last three years. I happened to be in the right place at the right time," Harris tells the magazine, trying to downplay his success.

Rival DJ David Guetta came in second with a paltry $30 million.

Barb Stegemann's scents are infused with a story and a sense of purpose

Barb Stegemann was on a trip to Haiti meeting suppliers for her successful perfume company The 7 Virtues when she was introduced to a Rwandan bracelet maker.

The woman told her the bracelets symbolized empowerment for HIV widows who had survived genocide in Rwanda, and with the purchase of that one bracelet, plus an invitation by the Rwanda High Commission to visit the country; the Canadian perfumer was inspired to create her next signature scent — Patchouli of Rwanda.

"Within six months I was holding the woman's hand who made my bracelet and living a dream come true, trekking into the hills of Rwanda to meet our patchouli farmers and being a part of the solution," Stegemann recalls.

The Rwandan patchouli farmers the Canadian company employs are adult orphans and widows of genocide, and through her partnership and investments, Stegemann's hope is the farmers can live with dignity and rebuild in their war-torn communities.

The company has also sourced essential oils for perfumes from countries like Afghanistan, Haiti and the Middle East, investing more than $120,000 into those regions through purchases of oil.

To create the new scent, the natural patchouli oil is blended with hints of cedar flower, freesia, red grapefruit and hibiscus, creating a refreshing Canadian-produced vegan and paraben-free perfume.

Patchouli of Rwanda is the fifth fragrance from The 7 Virtues, a startup launched by Stegemann in 2010 in Nova Scotia. She went on to pitch successfully to CBC's Dragon's Den, securing $75,000 investment from entrepreneur W. Brett Wilson and was named the show's Top Game Changer for Season 5.

Today, the company has offices in Toronto and London, U.K. and the company's line of Canadian-made fragrances are available at The Bay in Canada and in high-end department stores such as Lord & Taylor in New York City, Selfridges in London, and Galeries Lafayette in Berlin.

"The beautiful deep ruby red of the beets in this dish is accentuated by the creamy white of the Cashew Cheese and topped off with the green of the Basil Sauce," write Angus Crawford and Chelsea Clark in Rawlicious at Home.

The book recommends soaking the nuts used in the Cashew Cheese and Basil Sauce in about three inches of water, uncovered at room temperature. Cashews should be soaked for four hours and pumpkin seeds for six.

Cashew Cheese

1. Place everything, except the water, in a food processor and process until combined.

2. Add the water and process until smooth.

Basil Sauce

1. Blend all ingredients in a blender until smooth.

Beet Ravioli

1. Use a mandoline to thinly slice the beets. You will have some extra slices that are irregular or not complete. Select the best ones and match up in pairs for the top and bottom of each ravioli.

2. Combine the olive oil and lemon juice in a bowl, and add the beet slices. Marinate the beets for 30 minutes to soften.

3. Mix the cashew cheese with the dill.

4. Remove the beet slices from the marinade and lie flat on a cutting board. Drop 1 tsp cashew cheese in the center of half the slices.

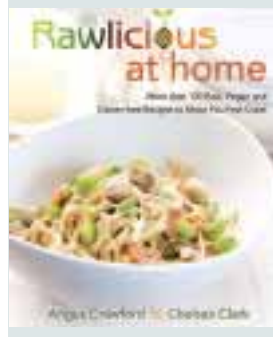

5. Lay the remaining beet slices on top of them. Use your hands to press down and seal the edges of each ravioli, wetting your fingers with a little water to help them stick.

6. Serve with a drizzle of basil sauce overtop.

It's one of the great indulgences of late summer — a ripe tomato, picked from your backyard vine, sliced while it's still warm from the sun and piled high on toasted, homemade bread.

We'll be dreaming of garden tomatoes come January, so get your fill now. Farmers' markets are a great place for picking up a basket of tomatoes, including some heirloom varieties featuring fun colours, tastes and shapes. A mix of red, orange, yellow and purple tomatoes looks great on a serving platter.

I like to keep things simple so the sweet flavour of these gems shines through. Thickly slice three or four tomatoes and arrange them on a plate. Liberally sprinkle with freshly-ground black pepper and salt. Crumble a handful of feta over the top. Drizzle with balsamic vinegar. Top with chopped basil or parsley. It makes the perfect light lunch or a delicious side dish for a barbecue.

Salsa never lasts long around our table. With fresh garden tomatoes, it's irresistible. Feel free to adjust the heat, lime and salt in this basic recipe.

Gone in 60 Seconds Salsa

3 tomatoes, finely diced (about 2 cups)

1/3 cup cilantro, chopped

1/4 cup white onion, finely chopped

1/2 small fresh jalapeño, finely chopped

1 tablespoon freshly squeezed lime juice

1/2 teaspoon fine salt, or 1 teaspoon kosher salt

Mix all ingredients together. Let stand on the counter for one hour. Drain juices. Adjust salt and lime. Add more chopped jalapeño if you want more of a kick.

A few tablets for the classes

Tech talk. There's a tablet out there for any stage of student life

MIKE YAWNEY
For Metro

It's easy to brush off tablets as larger versions of smartphones. The truth is, they can be a huge asset to students, both young and old. Here are some of the best tablets to take into the classroom this fall.

Clockwise from top left, Sony Xperia Z2, Nexus 7, iPad mini and the Samsung Galaxy Tab S.

Sony Xperia Z2, $529.99 and up

This Android slate boasts one of the fastest processors found in any tablet. Not only does it have processing power to spare, it also has a feature rarely seen in tablets: it's waterproof. Throw it into a backpack with a lunch bag or water bottle without the fear of spills or leaks. In fact, if it gets dirty you can throw it in the sink and wash it off. The Z2 tablet is also dust and scratch resistant, adding to its overall durability.

friends with the touch of a button; great for students who are away from home.

iPad Air, $519 and up

The perfect choice for students who want style, functionality, and access to some of the best apps. Apple's strict app approval process has created a top-tier marketplace with a focus on quality. Some of the most useful and productive apps such as Pages, Numbers and Keynote are available free of charge. And, let's not forget Apple's FaceTime feature, which allows you to make video calls to family and iPad Mini with Retina display, $419 and up

The power and elegance of Apple's full-sized iPad, only in a smaller package. The 7.9" screen allows users to hold the Mini comfortably in one hand, without sacrificing display quality. Despite its small size, you can still expect up to 10 hours of use, long enough to last through even the longest lectures.

Samsung Galaxy Tab S, $419 and up

One of the thinnest and lightest tablets on the market. At 294 grams and a mere 6.6mm thick, the Samsung Galaxy Tab S is ideal for those who want productivity without the bulk. Busy students can take advantage of the multitasking feature, which allows you to check your email and surf the web at the same time.

The razor sharp screen also makes it perfect for watching TV or movies ... once homework is complete, of course.

Surface Pro 3, $849 and up

Although Microsoft's latest tablet doesn't have nearly the same number of apps as its competitors, it makes up for it in other areas. Surface Pro 3 can be used as a high-end tablet, or you can purchase the keyboard accessory (sold separately) and use it as a laptop with a full version of Windows 8.1. Run thousands of programs designed for Windows and connect your favourite peripherals with the built-in USB port. The included Surface Pen lets you mark up presentations or draw right on the screen.

Nexus 7, $249 and up

This budget-friendly tablet may be cheaper than others on the market, but don't let that fool you. Google's Nexus 7 tablet offers plenty of apps through Google's Play store, plus plenty of other features including long battery life and wireless charging. Younger students can also share the tablet with siblings at home with separate customizable profiles, keeping home screens, apps and storage separate for each user.

Going back to school doesn't have to be all doom and gloom. Make the student in your life excited about heading back to campus or the classroom with one of these tech gadgets.

Apple TV, $109

Connect Apple TV to your television, log into your iTunes account, and enjoy movies TV shows, music, Netflix and more. The menus are a breeze to navigate and AirPlay, iPad and iPhone owners are able to stream content right to their TV. The small size of this device makes it perfect for student dorms or bedrooms.

Garmin Vivofit, $149.99

Student life can be stressful, that's why it's important to pay attention to your health. The Vivofit tracks steps, calories and sleep, but this monitor really sets itself apart from the competition with a few features. The device works in conjunction with Garmin's wireless heart rate chest strap, monitors for extremely accurate stats, and the battery lasts an entire year. Works with most Android, Windows and iOS smartphones.

their favourite tunes.

Blacksumac Piper, $216

Never wonder who was rummaging through your dorm room again. This handy security system works in conjunction with your iPhone or Android device. Once movement is detected, Piper lets out an ear-piercing 105-decibel siren. Plus, it calls, texts and emails you and your circle of friends to notify of the intrusion, while recording it all for later viewing. Students also have access to the built-in HD camera for a live view of their room.

Anker 2nd Gen Astro Charger, $35.99

This small external battery ensures your smartphone never runs out of juice. While many external batteries limit the recharge rate, Anker identifies the device you plug into it so it charges at the correct speed. To see how much power remains just shake it. There is enough juice stored inside to recharge your iPhone twice, or a Samsung Galaxy S5 three times. Works with any USB device.

Marshall Monitor FX Headphones, $229.95

Headphones are great to help you relax during stressful times, or to simply block outside noise to aid in studying. These headphones offer studio quality sound with extreme comfort in mind. A removable insert behind the ear cushion allows for customized sound. A built-in mic on the detachable headphone cable allows students to answer calls, while listening to

Versifli LED smart bulb, $69.99

Personalize your dorm room. Once this bulb is installed, you can control the light with your iPhone or iPad. Change the colour, dim the light, or set it to wake you up in the morning. Other fun features include party mode, which transforms any dorm room into a nightclub.

Cocoon Grid-it, $19.95 and up

A simple solution to a cluttered backpack. This unique insert has a series of straps that allow you to carry and store various cords, chargers, pens and other objects. Available in multiple sizes, depending on a student's needs.

Cohon stepping down from his post in April

CFL. Commissioner's legacy includes lucrative TV deal and new labour agreement

One of the CFL's longest-serving commissioners is leaving the post.

Mark Cohon will not return for a third term when his current contract expires in April 2015. Now in his eighth season as CFL commissioner, only Jake Gaudaur (1968-1984) and Sydney Halter (1958-1966) have held the position as long.

Cohon, 48, says he made the announcement now to give the CFL's board of governors time to recruit his replacement.

A lucrative television deal, the return of Ottawa to the CFL, labour peace until 2018, a more stringent drug-testing policy and new stadium projects in Saskatchewan, Winnipeg, Hamilton and Ottawa will be among Cohon's legacies.

"Those were all things that were major projects to move this league along," Cohon told reporters Wednesday on a conference call.

"The thing I can be proud of is we built this great foundation for the next individual to build upon and for the board of governors to build upon."

The weak position of the Argonauts in Toronto's sports landscape and expansion into Atlantic Canada are unfinished business for Cohon, and a concussion lawsuit against the CFL was filed last month.

Cohon says he will continue to work on improving the Argos' situation before he departs.

"What's next for me is looking (at) tape on Monday, doing discipline on Monday, closing sponsorship deals and getting ready for the Grey Cup, making an announcement on who the halftime act is at the Grey Cup and focusing on the business at hand," he said.

"I haven't even thought what's next for me. I'm confident in my abilities in terms of thinking about what I can do. That will be another chapter, another story and another interview for another time."

He took over as commissioner in 2007 from Tom Wright and signed a contract extension in February 2012.

During the 100th anniversary of the Grey Cup in Toronto that year, he told reporters, "I'm happy where I am, I'm challenged and I hope to be around for a while." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jays breathe a short sigh of relief at last

Homebound. Road trip from hell ends on a good-note win over Brewers in Milwaukee

The Toronto Blue Jays are heading home with a sense of relief.

Outslugging one of the best teams in the National League can ease the sting of a 2-6 road trip.

Jose Bautista's three-run homer capped a five-run sixth inning, and Toronto snapped the Milwaukee Brewers' five-game winning streak with a 9-5 victory Wednesday.

It's time to start chipping away again in the AL East after falling a season-high nine games out of first entering the day.

"This has not been a good road trip for us; anybody will tell you that," starter R.A. Dickey said. "The home run by Jose was the difference and you could kind of hear a collective sigh on the bench."

Bautista hit a 1-2 pitch from reliever Brandon Kintzler into the Brewers' bullpen in right field, scattering pitchers from their seats. The two-out homer made a winner of Dickey (10-12), who gave up five runs in 5 2/3 choppy innings.

"In reality, that's baseball. You go through these stretches," said manager John Gibbons. "It doesn't take much just to miss a ball."

Women's rugby. Second in the World Cup, Canada figuring out what's next

With a second-place finish at the women's rugby World Cup, Canada showed it deserved a place among the sport's elite teams.

Figuring out how to stay there is the next challenge, and it could be a big one.

The Canadian women's team received unprecedented exposure during its run to the final of the World Cup, which ended in a tough 21-9 loss to England on Sunday. Canada's games were televised live, and winger Magali Harvey's brilliant 100-metre try against France in Canada's semifinal win made highlight reels across the country. Harvey was even named player of the year.

It remains to be seen how Rugby Canada builds on the historic World Cup performance. The precedent set by the sustained interest in women's soccer after Canada's bronze-medal performance at the London Olympics could serve as a possible model.

Changes coming to draft lottery

The NHL draft lottery will change slightly next year and drastically in 2016, the NHL said Wednesday.

In 2015, the team finishing with the fewest points will have a 20 per cent chance, down from 25, the second-lowest 13.5 down from 18.8, the third-lowest 11.5 from 14.2 and the fourth-lowest 9.5 from 10.7.

The NHL's draft lottery in 2016 will resemble the NBA's, where the first three spots are up for grabs.

At the age of 16, Brooke Henderson gets it.

The amateur from Smiths Falls, Ont., is well aware of the high expectations that come from finishing in the top 10 at a major tournament and emerging as the best young Canadian woman golfer.

Henderson doesn't seem tham already established on the LPGA Tour.

She goes into this week's Canadian Pacific Women's Open at London Hunt and Country Club with all that perspective to go with her experience. Henderson missed the cut the past two years in Edmonton and Vancouver and understands what it's all about this time, playing about a seven-hour drive from where she grew up.

Henderson set her expectation at making the cut and then "hopefully climb up the leader board a little bit."

That is a realistic goal two weeks after she finished second to Kristen Gillman at the U.S. Women's Amateur. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

The Sun's imminent move into the wellbeing area of your chart suggests you may feel sluggish over the next few days. It's your body's way of telling you to slow down for a while.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Over the past few weeks, cosmic activity in a sensitive area of your chart has made it hard to be positive. That will change on Saturday.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Duties will take up a large slice of your time today, time you would no doubt prefer to spend socializing. Do what has to be done and do it well.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

The Sun's change of signs on the weekend will get your mind moving faster and expand your vision as well. You will begin to see good things you missed over the past few weeks.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

The Sun leaves your birth sign on Saturday, which means you need to get serious about issues that up until now you have treated as a joke.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

A new solar year begins for you in 48 hours time and if you want to get it off to a flying start you must clear as much junk out of your life as is humanly possible.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

The planets warn you need to accept that you won't be able to do everything, no matter how carefully you manage your time. Get help or scale back on your ambitions — or do both.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

A loved one may behave irrationally but take it in stride. Sometimes people do things that don't make any sense. You've done it a few times too.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

On the weekend, the Sun moves into the career area of your chart and already you are thinking of ways to impress important people. Don't be so ambitious that they worry you might be after their job.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

There are things that need to be said and Pluto in your sign, linked to communications planet Mercury, will help you find just the right words. Only concern yourself with the truth.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

If you have to sign something today make sure you check the small print, because there could be some nasty surprises if you don't take care.

♓ Pisces

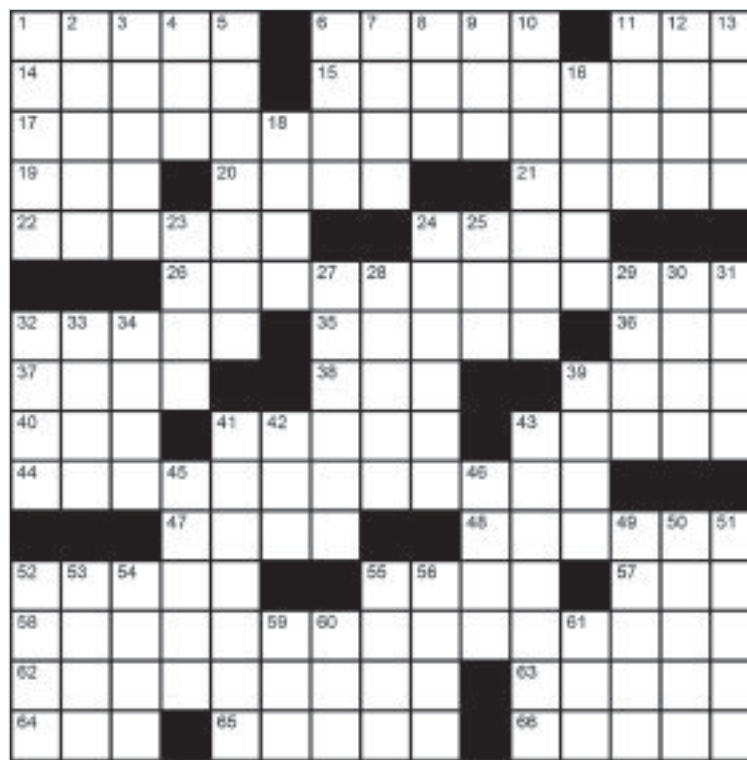

Feb. 20 - March 20

Whatever you focus on today will go from idea to reality quicker than you expect. Make sure your thoughts are positive.
